In partial answer to the above requirement, a possible SAM site, located roughly 10 nautical miles west of Khabarovsk across the Amur River, appears on far oblique photography of [REDACTED]. The installation, which appears to be situated in a military-type fenced area, may be a greatly modified version of a Moscow-type SAM site. Scanning of photography covering the Khabarovsk and Komsomol'sk areas is continuing, and further details on this and any similar installations which may be found will be reported in a subsequent publication.
